Print and Play
March 2026
Color the States Solution

Nevada, Kentucky, and West Virginia are each surrounded by an odd number of neighboring states. (Can you find the corresponding nodes on the network?)

If a state is completely surrounded by a ring containing an odd number of states, at least three colors are needed to color in the ring so that adjacent states have different colors, and, therefore, four colors are needed altogether.